“(d)—TESTS ON COMPLETED WELDS ON PIPELINES,

(1) Classification

For the purpose of tests, pipelines shall be divided into two classes:—

Class I—Pipelines for service conditions in which any one of the following limits is exceeded:—

Design temperature	218°C (425°F).
Design Pressure	17.6 kg/cm ² (250 lbs./sq. in.).
Feed Water	24.6 kg/cm ² (350 lbs./sq. in.).

Class II—Pipelines for service conditions in which none of the following limits is exceeded.

(2) Identification of Welds

The Welders' identification mark shall be stamped without indentation, or stencilled adjacent to each completed weld.

(3) Tests for Class I pipelines

(i) Where the completed pipelines are not subjected to hydraulic test.—Where the completed pipelines are not tested by the application of hydraulic pressure, the welds shall be subjected to the following inspection procedure:—

Piping Over 4 in. (102 mm.) bore.—All butt-welds shall be subjected to non-destructive examination by radiographic or other approved methods. The entire circumference of the first five welds made by each welder shall be non-destructively examined. If these are found to be satisfactory and the Inspecting Officer or Inspector is in other respects satisfied with the welding technique, methods of control and supervision employed, relaxation in the extent of non-destructive examination may be considered, but this relaxation shall in no case permit the non-destructive examination of less than one-third of the circumference of each of the remaining welds made by the Welder concerned.

Piping 4 in. (102 mm.) bore and under, but not less than 1½ in. (33 mm.) bore.—Five per cent of the butt-welds made by each welder with a minimum of two welds per welder, selected at random shall be subjected to non-destructive examination by either radiographic or other approved methods or may be cut out for visual examination and bend tests.

Piping less than 1½ in. (38 mm.) bore.—Special tests are not normally required but two percent of the welds by each welder on a pipeline may be cut out from the pipeline for visual examination and bend tests.

(ii) Where the completed pipelines are subjected to hydraulic test.—Where the completed pipelines are tested by the application of hydraulic pressure, the welds shall be subjected to the following inspection procedure:—

Piping over 4 in. (102 mm.) bore.—Ten percent of the welds made by each Welder on a pipeline with a minimum of two welds per welder, selected at random, shall be subjected to non-destructive examination by radiographic or other approved methods.

Piping 4 in. (102 mm.) bore and under, but not less than 1½ in. (38 mm.) bore.—Two percent of the welds made by each welder on a pipeline with a minimum of one weld per welder, selected at random, shall be subjected to non-destructive examination by radiographic or other approved methods or may be cut out for visual examination and bend tests.

Piping less than 1½ in. (38 mm.) bore.—Special tests are not normally required, but two percent of the welds by each welder or a pipeline may be cut out from the pipeline for visual examination and bend tests.

(4) Tests for Class II Pipelines

(i) All pipelines under this classification shall be subjected to hydraulic test on completion of erection.

(ii) On completion of the first ten production welds made by each welder, one of the welds shall be cut out for test purposes or alternatively, the welder shall prepare a test specimen made up of two similar lengths of piping welded in a position as closely representative of a selected production weld as is practicable. The test specimen shall be subjected to visual examination and bend tests.

(iii) Two percent of the remainder of the welds made by each welder shall be selected at random and cut out for test purposes, or, alternatively, the welders shall prepare a test specimen made up of two similar lengths of piping welded in a position as closely representative of a selected production weld as is practicable. The test specimen shall be subject to visual examination and bend tests.

5. Re-tests

If any test specimen is unsatisfactory, two further weld specimens for re-test shall be selected from the production welds and subjected to tests. In the event of failure of any of the re-test specimens, the production welds carried out by this welder subsequent to the previous test shall be subject of special consideration.
